Why study in the Czech Republic?

Safe and welcoming country

The Czech Republic, home to the oldest university in Central Europe, welcomes around 35,000 internationals each year thanks to the increasing number of English-taught degrees, inexpensive tuition fees, low living costs as well as safety and charm of the country.

High-ranked universities

Some of the world's top-ranked universities can be found in the Czech Republic, and the Brno University of Technology is proud to be one of them:

- Brno University of Technology
- Charles University
- Masaryk University

Low living costs

Living costs in the Czech Republic are lower when compared to most countries in Western Europe. On average, students spend between 315 and 675 EUR/month, which includes accommodation, food, transportation and social activities.

Small or no tuition fees

The yearly tuition fees for English-taught degrees in public universities usually range between EUR 0 and 20,000. The price is the same for both EU/EAA and non-EU/EEA students. The fees may be higher in private universities.

If you're very good at Czech, you can study for free in public universities, because degrees taught in Czech are free of charge regardless of your nationality.

Fees and costs

Admission fees

Once you've filed and submitted an electronic application, you'll need to pay a validation fee of EUR 24.

A certificate of recognition ("nostrifikační doložka" in Czech) is usually necessary to validate foreign education and qualifications. If you don't have a certificate of recognition, you can request the assessment of education compatibility at a fee of EUR 26.

Tuition fees

Czech-taught degrees are free of charge regardless of your nationality!

Even if you choose an English-taught study programme, the tuition fees are affordable, ranging between EUR 3,000 and 9,000 per year. The exact amount depends on the study programme.

You can see the specific amounts of fees for individual study programs here.

After choosing your programme, fill in an electronic application on the university website.

Please make sure that you're familiar with the admission criteria (entrance exam, required education, etc.) and that you've managed to get all the necessary documents.

For a bachelor's programme, you'll typically need a certificate of secondary education, and a certificate of recognition is also be necessary. For a master's programme, you'll need a certified copy of your bachelor diploma. More information about the recognition and assessment of foreign education can be found here. Detailed information on the entrance exam is published on your faculty website. If in doubt, contact the faculty's Study Department.

Visa and residence permit

Non-EU/EEA students

If you're from another country, you'll probably need a student visa to study in the Czech Republic. Which means another round of paperwork for you. But don't worry, it's the last one!

EU/EEA students

If you're an EU citizen or a citizen of Norway, Lichtenstein, Switzerland or Iceland, you won't need any visa or residence permit.

Stay of up to 90 days

If you plan to stay for less than 90 days, you'll need a short-term visa.

Citizens of some countries are exempt from the short-term visa requirement, which means you may not need visa at all. Your application will be processed within 15 days. Check this page for more details.

Stay of over 90 days

If you plan to stay for more than 90 days, you'll need a long-term visa for the purpose of studies. An application for this visa can be filed at a Czech embassy abroad.

A long-term visa for the purpose of studies is issued for a period specified in the confirmation of studies, but for no longer than 1 year.

In order to apply, you'll need a travel document, a proof of accommodation, a Letter of Acceptance from BUT, a proof of funds, and 2 photographs. You may be asked to submit other documents, such as your penal register record. Please make sure to apply for your visa well in advance, because the issuance may take some time. Check this page for more details.

Stay of over 1 year

If you plan to stay for longer than 1 year, you'll need a long-term residence permit for the purpose of studies. An application for this permit can be filed at a Czech embassy abroad.

A long-term residence permit for the purpose of studies is intended for foreigners who will study in the Czech Republic for a period longer than 3 months in a study programme longer than 1 year. The validity of this permit can be repeatedly extended, but by no longer than 2 years.

In order to apply, you'll need a travel document, a proof of accommodation, a document confirming the purpose of your stay in the Czech Republic, a proof of funds, and 2 photographs. You may be asked to submit other documents, such as your penal register record. Your application will be processed within 60 days. Check this page for more details.

Student Mode

The Student Mode project aims to facilitate the visa procedure for the students from selected countries who are admitted to study at a Czech university. The purpose of the Student Mode is to accelerate access to the relevant embassy for an applicant seeking a long-term visa or residence permit for the purpose of studies. Please note that placing an applicant on the list doesn't automatically guarantee their visa application will be successful.

Contact andrea.sura@vutbr.cz or kucharikova@vutbr.cz for more information.

How to get a Student Mode nomination?

If you want to be nominated, contact your faculty coordinator for short-term studies or degree studies in English or Czech.

What should I do when I have been accepted?

Prepare all the documents necessary for submitting your application at the Czech embassy.

Getting to Brno

Being the second largest city of the Czech Republic, Brno is an important regional centre, and it is also easily accessible due to its location in the heart of Europe.

By train

Brno is an important rail junction situated on the Balkan – Budapest – Prague – Berlin – Scandinavia rail route. All EuroCity trains stop in Brno. The distance from Prague to Brno is 256 kilometres, from Vienna 155 kilometres, from Bratislava 132 kilometres, from Berlin 566 kilometres and from Wrocław 312 kilometres. The main railway station is located in the centre of Brno. You can search for train, bus and public transport connections at IDOS. Train tickets can be bought online at the website of České dráhy. The private companies RegioJet and Leo Express operate trains from Prague and Vienna to Brno.

By plane

The Brno-Tuřany international airport is regularly served by flights from London-Stansted and Milan-Bergamo. There are many seasonal flights to and from the Greek islands, Egypt, Spain, Turkey and Bulgaria.

In order to get to the main railway station ("Brno – hlavní nádraží" in Czech) or the central bus station ("Brno Zvonařka"), take the bus number E76, which leaves the airport every 30 minutes, or N89, the night bus operating between 11 p.m. and 5 a.m. and running every hour. The journey takes around 20 minutes. Check BRNO Airport for more information.

Apart from Brno-Tuřany, the Václav Havel Airport in Prague, the Vienna International Airport and the Bratislava Airport are your most convenient options. You might want to check Kiwi or other search engines for cheap flights.

The Vienna Airport bus stop is located in walking distance from the arrival hall, and some buses (e.g. RegioJet or FlixBus buses) will take you right to the centre of Brno.

RegioJet buses leave from Prague's Václav Havel airport.

By bus or car

Brno can be reached via motorways heading from Prague, Bratislava or Vienna.

There are several bus service operators on these routes. Some of the buses depart directly from the airports (see above). The connections can be found at IDOS or at the transportation companies' websites.

From Prague
RegioJet buses leave from Prague's Václav Havel airport and from the Praha-Florenc bus station. All buses arrive to the Brno – Grand hotel bus station.

FlixBus operates buses from the Praha-Florence bus station only.

From Vienna
RegioJet and FlixBus operate direct buses from Vienna's Schwechat airport and both of them stop at the Brno – Grand hotel bus station.

Public transport

Once in Brno, you will probably want to get to the Hlavní nádraží tram station, which is located right in front of the main railway station. Take the 12 tram to reach the Technological park tram stop, where the BUT campus and the largest BUT dormitory are situated.

The public transport system, which includes bus, tram and trolleybus lines, is excellent in Brno. Students are entitled to a reduced transport fare after submitting a student status certificate, issued by the Brno Public Transport Authority and confirmed by the BUT study department. You can apply for your non-transferable public transport ticket online, which we definitely recommend.

Fares

15-minute ticket – CZK 20

60-minute ticket – CZK 25

90-minute ticket – CZK 27

All timetables can be found at IDOS.

For more information about public transport and getting around Brno in general, visit www.gotobrna.cz.

Currently all public transport vehicles have a system “Beep & Go” which is contactless ticket purchase – no paper, no registration, no worries.

Health insurance

EU/EEA students (EU + Switzerland, Norway, Liechtenstein, Iceland)

Visit the General Health Insurance Company ("VZP" or "Všeobecná zdravotní pojišťovna" in Czech) to register. You'll get a personal health insurance number, which you'll show to doctors or in hospitals. The insurance covers most health care costs. If you don't register, you may be asked to pay for treatment in cash.

Check this page for more information.

Opening hours
Mon, Wed: 8:00–17:00

Fri: 8:00–14:00

Non-EU/EEA students

Other foreign students are advised to arrange health insurance before leaving their homes. Non-EU citizens are obliged to arrange a health insurance that complies with the Czech legislation. The following companies meet the legal requirements:

- General Health Insurance Company
- MAXIMA
- SLAVIA
- UNIQUA
- ERGO
- Axa Assistance

Turkey, Croatia, Macedonia, Serbia and Montenegro

Students from these countries don't need the commercial insurance. They should register at the General Health Insurance Company (VZP) using form E111, provided by their home insurance company. Check this page for more information.

Opening a bank account

Once you've settled in Brno, you'll probably want to open a bank account. The Czech Republic hosts several big national and international banks. You can thus choose from Česká spořitelna, ČSOB, Komerční banka, MONETA Money Bank, Deutsche Bank, Raiffeisenbank, and others. If you're looking for low fees and don't need any special services, consider one of the low-cost banks (such a Equa, Fio, Air Bank or mBank). Most banks provide internet banking services.

To open a bank account in the Czech Republic, you'll typically need

- a valid passport
- another identity document (your driver's license, identity card, birth certificate)
- a minimum deposit (usually between CZK 200 and CZK 2,000)
- a confirmation of studies or student visa

In some cases it is possible to open a bank account online, but you'll still need to drop by the bank in person with your identity documents and the minimum deposit to finalize the procedures.

Check this page to get more information.

ATMs and cards

ATMs in the Czech Republic are compatible with Visa, EuroCard, MasterCard, Maestro, and American Express cards. You can select your preferred language.

Shops, international retailers, hotels and restaurants almost always accept card payments. Some small town restaurants and shops may prefer cash.

Mobile payments are becoming more and more popular in the country. The number of Google Pay and Apple Pay payments is increasing rapidly.

Private accommodation

You can always rent a flat or house if you don't want to stay at a BUT dormitory. However, there are a few things you should know.

Who to deal with

It's best to deal with a reputable agency. While individuals also can and do offer flats and houses to rent, problems may arise if you decide to rent from a private individual, particularly when it comes to obtaining proof of ownership (see below). Good agencies will make sure that the person leasing the flat is legally entitled to do so and that the lease contract contains all the necessary and standard provisions. The usual fee charged by an agency is equivalent to one month's rent.

Lease contract

You should, of course, understand exactly what you're signing. Any agency accustomed to dealing with foreigners should be able to provide you with a lease contract in both English and Czech (the latter having legal force should there be any question as to interpretation). Many can also supply versions in other major languages.

Ownership of the property

Ownership of the property you wish to rent must be proven through an extract from the property register. This document is important because only the owner (or an individual with power of attorney to represent the owner) can lease a flat or house. However, many flats in the Czech Republic are in fact owned by local authorities, and it is illegal to sublet these flats. Only an extract from the property register can give you the confidence that you are renting the flat legally.

Rent and security deposit

Rent is usually paid monthly, in advance. Rents may be quoted in one of two ways. The first is the basic rent for the flat/house alone plus the cost of the utilities (electricity, water, gas), which come separately. The second is an overall rent inclusive of the utilities. When a particular rent is quoted, you should make sure which of these two systems it works with. If the utilities are calculated separately, their approximate cost per month is then added to this basic rent to make up the rent you will actually pay each month (this will be stated in the lease contract). Once a year the landlord will calculate your real consumption of electricity, water and gas; depending on the results, you will either receive a refund or be required to pay an additional sum to make up the difference. Usually the lease also includes a security deposit, in most cases equal to one month's rent. This is paid at the beginning of the lease and kept by the landlord to be returned at the end of the lease, unless damage has been caused to the property. In this case, the landlord can retain part or all of the security deposit to cover the damage.

Hand-over record

The lease, or (more often) a record attached to it, may contain a description of the condition of the flat, its equipment, readings of the utility metres, etc. The latter in particular is important. You should check that the figures listed for the metres correspond to the actual readings; otherwise, you might be in for a big surprise when the annual statement of your consumption of electricity, water and gas comes in. The same is true of the description of the flat; you do not want to be held responsible for damage that was actually caused before you started renting the place, or be accused of having made off with something that was not there in the first place.

Duration of the lease

Most leases are signed for a period of one year. They may have a clause allowing the lease to be terminated early, in which case the notice period can vary from one to three months. Otherwise, Czech law states that in cases where you wish to terminate the lease early (or where no termination date has been specified, though this is uncommon, especially in leases for foreigners), you must give three months' notice.

Watch out

The Civil Code allows verbal contracts, which you can make use of to deal with certain matters faster (in case your landlord is away and you need to make some changes). This part of your contract should be added to the written one as soon as possible. But even if this is not the case, verbal contract is binding in same way as a written one.

Waste collection fee

Every student who wants to stay in Brno for more than 3 months should pay a waste collection fee. Check this page for more information.

An accommodation grant is awarded to full-time students whose permanent address is not registered in the district of Brno. The exact amount is determined by the rector.

The accommodation grant is approximately EUR 19 per month.

Students can apply for the grant via StudIS in the Scholarships and Charges section. The grant can only be sent to a CZK bank account.

Other types of scholarship

BUT grants scholarships for outstanding study results, for the support of doctoral students and in some exceptional cases.

And there are other scholarship opportunities for international students in the Czech Republic you might want to check out.

As a BUT student, you are entitled to several types of student cards, which can be used not only to enter university buildings, but also thanks to them you can get many interesting discounts and benefits to many restaurants, sports facilities, sightseeings, various events or libraries.

ISIC

You should obtain your International Student Identity Card (ISIC) at your home university or in your home country.

ISIC will allow you to benefit from student discounts on things like public transport passes, museum or theatre tickets, bus, rail and air fares.

If for some reason you're unable get your ISIC before coming to BUT, you can apply for it at Student Agency, Náměstí Svobody 1, Brno. You'll need to pay CZK 350 and bring a confirmation of studies, which you'll get from your faculty coordinator.

It gives you access to all the services offered by ESN and all its partners.

It is valid for 12 months and can be used by the card holder only.

→ Life in Brno

City of Brno

With the population of over 380,000 inhabitants, Brno is the second largest city in the Czech Republic. It's also very popular with students. According to QS (a company behind university rankings), Brno is the 6th most popular student city worldwide. Students generally appreciate its safety, tolerance, ease of getting around, affordability, and also a large and friendly student community.

One in five is a student

There are almost 19,000 students at BUT. In total, 80,000 students from 13 universities live in Brno. This means one in five is a student.

Every year from October to May, Brno buzzes like a huge student hive. You will love the energy. Brno truly is a Mecca for students, and the vibrant atmosphere simply must be experienced in person.

Bored in Brno? Not a chance!

You might skip some lectures, but you definitely won't get bored. Concerts, theatres, festivals, exhibitions, parties, pubs, cafés...

The clubbing season kicks off in autumn. In winter, hot drinks at Christmas markets will keep you warm; if you fancy hot apple juice enriched with absinthe, ask for "Turbomošt". And once spring starts, everybody meets at the St. James Square ("Jakubák") to grab a beer, sit outside, talk with friends and admire the beautiful late Gothic Church of St. James.

Unique architecture. And nature all around

Some people fly from Japan just to visit the UNESCO-enlisted Villa Tugendhat, and you will be able to see it every day! Designed by the architect Mies van der Rohe, it is the most important modernist building in the whole country. The Brno Exhibition Centre, built in 1928, is another (but definitely not the last) great example of Brno's modernist heritage.

And the best part is, you can get anywhere within half an hour by tram. And if you hop on your bicycle, you will find beautiful nature all around!

Inside research and innovation

Brno is a real blessing for BUT students. Why? Because world-class research centres – such as CEITEC or Materials Research Centre – reside here.

But that's not all. There are other top-notch laboratories in the research centres established by our faculties, where students can join research activities as early as in the second year of their studies.

South Moravia

Brno is also the capital of the South Moravian Region. Of the 12 architectonic sights in the Czech Republic that are listed in the prestigious UNESCO World Heritage List, two are located in South Moravia. The first one, Villa Tugendhat, has already been mentioned. The second one is the Lednice-Valtice Cultural Landscape, one of the largest artificial landscapes in Europe. In addition to being the place of residence for the Liechtenstein family, it features various structures around Lednice and Valtice, such as chapels, colonnades, artificial ruins and an arch of triumph. UNESCO sights also include two biosphere reserves, Lower Moravia and the White Carpathians, as well as two sights of intangible cultural heritage, the Moravian-Slovakian dance called "verbuňk" and the Ride of the Kings.

Useful links

There are two excellent websites focusing on Brno:

- Brno Expat Centre helps foreign professionals settle and live in the city, and their website contains tons of useful information, covering pretty much all aspects of life and work in Brno.
- Go to Brno is a website created by Brno's Tourist Information Centre to help both locals and visitors experience what Brno has to offer, including architecture, culture, sports, gastronomy, night life and various events.

Cost of living in Brno

In general, the cost of living in the Czech Republic is lower than in the old EU member countries, and this applies to Brno too. Which means you'll be able to live comfortably without spending large sums.

The official currency of the Czech Republic is the Czech koruna. The approximate conversion rate is CZK 26 / EUR 1 (or CZK 100 / EUR 3.80 EUR). Although Euro is occasionally accepted by some restaurants, hotels and shops, the Czech koruna is generally the only currency that can be used. However, most supermarkets, shops, restaurants and institutions accept payment cards. And there are many ATMs in Brno, especially in the city centre, but you'll find them on the campus too.

Work in Brno during studies

Beginning from the first year of study, students in Czech universities have the right to officially work 20 hours a week. Many students work and study at the same time, and having a part-time job is common in the Czech Republic. There are working options for international students too, just keep in mind that the job offer may be limited because most jobs require fluency in the Czech language. However, there are many international companies operating in Brno where your ability to speak or understand a foreign language can be an advantage.

Non-EU/EEA citizens

If you're a non-EU/EEA citizen, you are allowed to work while studying, just remember that you're staying in the Czech Republic with a student visa, which means paid work cannot be your primary occupation and work should not affect your studies.

If you study a standard accredited degree programme, you don't need an employment permit. The employer is only obliged to notify the relevant regional office of the Public Employment Service when you start working.

If you finish your studies at a Czech university and wish to stay in the Czech Republic to work here, you can do it quite easily. You'll have to apply for an employee card, but since foreign nationals who get their university education in the Czech Republic have free access to the labour market, the employee card basically serves as a long-term residence permit.
